Responses were

- I am hoping that something is actually going to be taught in these lessons going forward into year 9 as year 8 appears to have been a selection of random films and documentaries being shown with no input from the teacher - a huge missed opportunity sadly
- Having this policy is great but ensuring it is taught is just as important. Due to staff absence, although my year 8 child has attended PSHE classes (including RSE), I have been advised that all they have done in this lesson for a least a term is colouring and chilling out. Very disappointing really.

As concerning as they are, they are not relevant to the survey.
